Cyclist killed after hitting car

Police still investigating, no word on charges • Rush hour traffic was moving slowly, witness says

A female cyclist died on Queen Street yesterday morning after an opening car door struck her and she fell into the path of another vehicle, witnesses say.

"It was horrific," said Mike Murphy, who said he was driving to work directly behind the Volkswagen Passat that struck the woman.

Murphy said the woman was trapped beneath the car and he and a handful of other bystanders stopped immediately, shouted at the driver to stop and lifted the car off the woman.

Despite their efforts, paramedics arriving on scene soon after were unable to revive the woman, who was in her 30s. Paramedics said she was pronounced dead upon arrival at hospital.

The car the bystanders lifted was weighs about 1,430 kilograms when it is empty, according to company specs.

Murphy and another bystander, Mario Arvizu, said the cyclist had almost passed a parked Volkswagen GTI when its door opened.

"I'm a tourist," said Arvizu, who is visiting Ottawa from Mexico with his girlfriend.

"It's really, really traumatic. I never saw something like that. We were all trying to help the lady because it was something horrible."

▶ A police officer takes notes as the bicycle and personal effects of a woman who was struck and killed around 8:58 a.m. yesterday on Queen Street, west of Metcalfe Street, lies on the road nearby.

Murphy said he wasn't sure if it would have been possible for either the driver opening the door or the driver who ultimately struck the cyclist to have avoided the accident.

"Another 30 seconds and I could have been driving the car that hit her," Murphy said, clearly shaken.

Cyclists preach safety after bike death

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Ottawa cyclists reacted with sadness yesterday after learning about a fatal collision between a 30-year-old female cyclist and a car during rush hour yesterday morning on Queen Street.

Witnesses said the woman was "doored" and then fell into the path of another vehicle.

"It's unfortunate that this happened to this lady," said Robert Dennis, an avid cyclist of more than 60 years. Dennis said he didn't think the incident would deter people from cycling to work, but he said cyclists need to be especially careful.

"I always look ahead to see if there's anybody in the car," he said. "If there's somebody in that car, I'm going to be very cautious and either slow down, or if I'm clear I can go around it wide enough so that the door can open," he said.

Bike courier Henry Summerfield recommends cyclists take up more space on the road even if it upsets motorists.

"I just stay out far enough if I feel the need," he said. "The best thing is that motorists or passengers on either side of the car, whenever you get out, just make a habit of looking over your shoulder and checking."

Unlike Dennis, Summerfield said he believes the incident will keep some people from cycling.

Five couples' baby-making efforts get bonus push

All finalists win expensive fertility treatments ◐ Radio stunt earns praise and criticism ◐ Contestant calls for OHIP funding of IVF

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

For five years, Natasha and Ryan Derouchie have been trying to have a baby, and now they — and four other couples — are days away from treatments that could make that dream come true.

The Derouchies were one of five finalist couples who entered the Win a Baby contest on local radio station Hot 89.9. Much to their surprise yesterday morning, co-host Jeff Mauler announced that all top five couples had won up to three fertility treatments rather than just one couple.

"There was lots of crying. We pretty much sobbed and just (held) each other. My phone was going crazy," said Natasha, 30. "Every couple was doing the same thing. We're still trying to absorb it because it's really a dream come true."

Natasha and Ryan both have fertility problems, and doctors told them the only way they could conceive was through in vitro fertilization (IVF). The high cost of the procedures held them back, but now they've won up to three fertility treatments valued at $35,000.

The contest didn't sit well with everyone, though. Several listeners blasted the radio station for putting human life up for grabs in a contest.

Natasha countered that Hot 89.9 was trying to raise awareness about infertility. One in six couples in Ontario struggle with infertility, according to ConceivableDreams.org.

Natasha said she wants to keep the public conversation going because so many people are affected.

"If people want something done, then they need to tell the government they want OHIP to fund IVF."

Family-drowning trial gets underway in Kingston court

Eight jurors have been selected in Kingston, Ont., in the murder trial of a Montreal couple and their adult son accused of killing members of their own family.

Jury selection began today in the trial of Tooba Mohammad Yahya, 41, her husband Mohammad Shafia, 58, and their son, Hamed Mohammad Shafia, 20.

The family members are each charged with four counts of first-degree murder.

Three teenage Shafia sisters — Zainab, 19, Sahari, 17, and Geeti, 13 — along with Rona Amir Mohammad, 50, were found dead inside a submerged car discovered in June 2009 in the Rideau Canal.

The case has drawn a lot of publicity, and 1,050 people have been sent jury summons.

The trial is projected to last about three months.

Fire at former Harley shop

A fire at a former Harley Davidson dealership warehouse at 505 Industrial Avenue has resulted in an estimated $125,000 in damages.

Ottawa Fire Services spokesperson Marc Messier said firefighters received the call just after 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

Messier said the fire is believed to have started in a wall on one side of the building and then spread to the roof area. Additional firefighters were dispatched in order to open up the roof and walls to prevent the fire from spreading. A nearby business, Fastenal, had to evacuate their employees as a precaution.

Messier said there were no reported injuries and the cause is under investigation. METRO

Rezoning opens door for new apartments

City, developer compromise on plan But residents of Trend-Arlington threaten to take fight to OMB

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

Ottawa's planning committee approved a zoning amendment yesterday for a new apartment building at Greenbank Road and Craig Henry Drive — a compromise with the developer that councillors defended as the only way to stave off a fight at the Ontario Municipal Board.

The developer, DCR Phoenix, originally proposed a six-storey, 72-unit building, but agreed later to a 61-unit structure consisting of two sections, one of them five-storeys high and the other three storeys. The revised plan was submitted after the city spent $15,000 for an architectural peer review that proposed a smaller building.

Some local residents oppose the plan.

"This will set a precedent for height and density down the road, and it's in a school zone," said James O'Grady, vice-president of the Trend-Arlington Community Association.

O'Grady said his group is concerned about the impact of traffic around the schools on Greenbank Road and the sightlines of the surrounding houses.

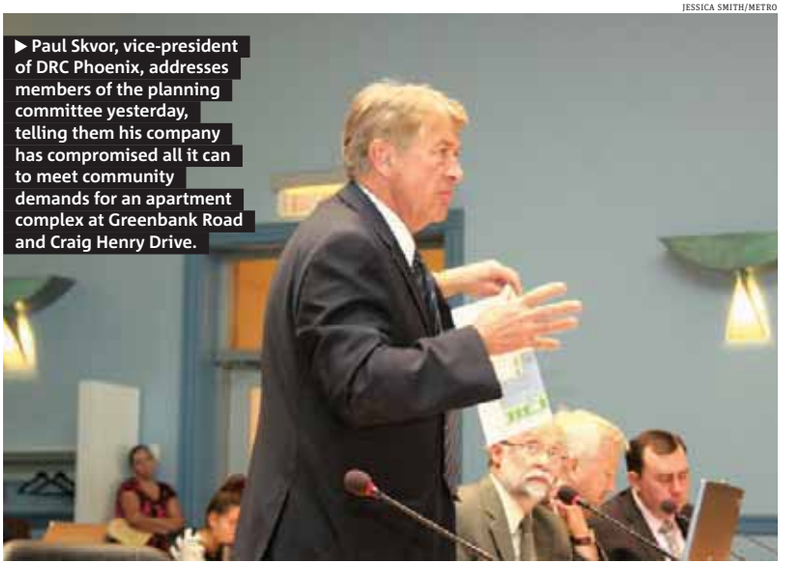
Most of the community members who spoke at the planning-committee meeting said they wanted all of the changes suggested in the peer review to be implemented, which would see a development with fewer apartments, a smaller footprint and a more attractive sloped-roof style.

But Coun. Rick Chiarelli said that if the city denies the developer's zoning application, the company could complain to the OMB and would probably win — and even see its original plan approved — because DCR Phoenix demonstrated a willingness to compromise and the building is in keeping with the city's official plan.

"Are you prepared for us to vote no and live with the consequences of the Ontario Municipal Board?" he asked O'Grady.

O'Grady replied that his group would launch its own OMB challenge, but later said that would be a last resort, after seeking more changes from the developer.

JESSICA SMITH/METRO



▶ Paul Skvor, vice-president of DRC Phoenix, addresses members of the planning committee yesterday, telling them his company has compromised all it can to meet community demands for an apartment complex at Greenbank Road and Craig Henry Drive.

Chiarelli and the other councillors said they are satisfied with the compromise. That includes Keith Egli, the ward councillor, who has worked for months on the plan with residents and the developer.

"I hope that the spirit of co-operation that has been built up through this process continues on and we continue to meet and negotiate the site plan and address the concerns that are out there in the community," Egli said.

Woman in labour gets police escort

SIRENS. A woman gave birth to a healthy baby just moments after she arrived at the Ottawa Hospital with a full police escort, lights on and sirens blaring, OPP officers said.

Officers stopped to investigate why a vehicle was stopped on the 417 eastbound west of Woodroffe Avenue Thursday morning and found that a female passenger was in advanced labour.

They called an ambulance but determined it couldn't get there in time, so four OPP cars that were in the area escorted the woman's vehicle to the hospital.

She was taken into care at about at 8:27 a.m. and her baby boy, named Tanner, was born healthy two minutes later weighing seven pounds, three ounces.

Dragon's Den star Kevin O'Leary in town to speak at writers' festival

SEAN MCKIBBON

SEAN MCKIBBON/METRO

▶ Dragon's Den star Kevin O'Leary.

Kevin O'Leary doesn't like to waste time and writing his book, Cold Hard Truth: On Business, Money & Life took him a lot longer than he expected.

"I have a new respect for authors. It's the hardest job in the world. If a man could give birth it would be to a book," says the entrepreneur and CBC Dragon's Den star. He says he figured it would take him 90 days. It took him a year and a half. "I would sit down every night at 11 p.m. with a bottle of burgundy and figure I'd write a chapter."

He'd go to bed pleased with what he'd written, but in the morning he'd take a look at the chapter.

"It was crap. I couldn't believe how crap it was," he says. But he kept at it, rewriting revising, making it better.

But he doesn't consider his book a waste of time at all. He learned something and hopes others will too.

"It was catharsis," he says of the process that forced him to delve deep into his memories, his childhood, his parents' divorce, his dyslexia and most importantly into his business failures.

"I was far more interested in why I failed," he says, adding that understanding successes is easier and doesn't teach as much. "What I found was is in every case where I made money it involved a partnership and in every case where I lost money it was something I tried to do on my own."

Everyone has weaknesses and the way to overcome them he says is to partner with people who can offset your weaknesses — a lesson he says works in all aspects of life, not just business.

Movie zombies take a tumble

TORONTO. Emergency workers faced a scene out of a horror movie yesterday after actors dressed as zombies fell off a platform during a film shoot in Toronto.

At least 16 actors on the set of Resident Evil: Retribution were injured.

The bizarre sight of the zombies made it difficult for emergency workers to assess the injuries, a spokesperson said. "It did kind of catch us off guard," said Sgt. Andrew Gibson.

Did the law let down Pickton's victims?

Inquiry commissioner asks: Are marginalized women truly equal?

The inquiry into how Robert Pickton was allowed to kill so many women without getting caught opened yesterday with a demonstration — and a question.

Commissioner Wally Oppal asked: Are marginalized women — including those targeted by the serial killer — truly equal?

"We must ask ourselves, 'Is this acceptable, is it acceptable that we allowed our most vulnerable to disappear, to be murdered.'

"The question is upsetting. It challenges our fundamental values."

But the question is essential to understanding the crisis of missing and murdered women, Oppal said in Vancouver.

JONATHAN HAYWARD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ An emotional embrace as the Pickton inquiry opens.

"Individually, the loss of each woman is heartbreaking. Taken together, the murder and disappearance of so many women is horrific," Oppal said.

Meanwhile, dozens of demonstrators banged on aboriginal drums and blocked traffic to protest the provincial government's decision to deny legal funding to several groups who asked to be involved in the inquiry.

The Assembly of First Nations announced it will "regrettably" withdraw from the inquiry.

The assembly's national chief, Shawn Atleo, said his group no longer is confident the inquiry will bring justice for the families of missing and murdered women in Canada.

The serial killer

- Pickton was convicted of killing six women, but he bragged to police that he killed as many as 49.
- Many of the women were from Vancouver's Downtown Eastside and worked as prostitutes and were addicted to drugs.
- He is serving a life sentence in a B.C. prison.

Hundreds of protesters, emboldened by the growing national outcry against what they see as the greed of Wall Street, streamed past the homes of some of the country's richest residents yesterday in a "Millionaires March."

Members of the Occupy Wall Street movement and other groups walked up the sidewalks of Manhattan's East Side, along world-famous streets lined with swank apartment towers.

Protesters have been camped out for weeks in lower Manhattan's Zuccotti Park, saying they're fighting for the "99 per cent" of Americans who do not fall into the wealthiest one per cent of the population.

Several hundred protesters were arrested in New York more than a week ago after police said they ignored warnings not to block traffic on the Brooklyn Bridge.

Their causes range from bringing down Wall Street to fighting global warming. The movement gained traction through social media, and protests have taken place in several other U.S. cities. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Court found Yulia Tymoshenko guilty of abuse of office Sentenced to 7 years in prison

Former prime minister Yulia Tymoshenko, a popular opposition leader who once symbolized Western hopes for a democratic Ukraine, was convicted of abuse of office yesterday in a verdict condemned by the U.S. and European Union as politically motivated.

The charismatic politician denounced the court even before the judge finished speaking. She compared it to the 1930s purges and show trials of Soviet dictator Josef Stalin and promised Ukrainians: "I will always be with you."

and eventually join the 27-nation European bloc.

The verdict capped a chaotic trial that started in late June and saw scuffles between Tymoshenko's supporters and opponents in court.

The court found Tymoshenko, 50, guilty of abuse of office in the signing of a natural gas import contract with Russia in 2009, saying she lacked an official authorization for the deal and had agreed to a price that was too high for Ukraine's economy.

But, Tymoshenko maintained her innocence, saying that as prime minister she did not need any special permission to order the signing of the deal. She says her actions helped end a bitter pricing dispute between Moscow and Kyiv, which had led to energy supply shortages across Europe. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nova Scotia Nominee Program, Economic Stream Refund

If you paid fees to the Economic Stream of the Nova Scotia Nominee Program, you might be able to get some money back from the Province of Nova Scotia. Read this to find out more.

What is this about?

A lawsuit was started against the Province of Nova Scotia in 2009. The goal was to get a refund for people who applied for and paid fees into the former Economic Stream of the Nova Scotia Nominee Program. The Supreme Court of Nova Scotia has now certified that lawsuit as a class action. Your legal rights may be affected. The lawyers for both sides have made a deal that would give a refund to eligible people. The Supreme Court of Nova Scotia approved the settlement as fair and reasonable.

Am I included?

You are if you (1) paid money to Nova Scotia under the Economic Stream of the Nova Scotia Nominee Program, (2) landed and obtained permanent resident status in Canada, and (3) did not already get a refund. As long as you told the truth in your application and immigration filings, you should be eligible for a refund.

What does this mean for me?

If you are a Class Member, your legal rights are affected. You will benefit from any settlement, but you must give up your right to sue the Government of Nova Scotia on your own.

How much will I get?

If you were not paid anything under a business mentorship, you will get $63,750 back if your claim is approved ($75,000 less an approved 15% fee of $11,250). If you were paid under a business mentorship, the amount you were paid will be deducted from $75,000. The 15% fee will be taken from the net amount.

Do I have to pay anything out of my own pocket?

No. The lawyers' fees have already been accounted for in the amount set out above. You will not be billed. The Supreme Court approved the lawyers' fee as fair and reasonable

How do I get my money?

You have to fill in a Claim Form. A copy of the Claim Form can be found at http://www.branchmacmaster.com/nova-scotia-immigration/. You must mail, fax, or email in the form by May 4, 2012.

What if I do not want to take part?

If you do not want to take part, you have to opt out. If you opt out, you will not get any benefit from the settlement. You will have to sue the Government of Nova Scotia on your own if you wish to recover anything. To opt out, go to http://www.branchmacmaster.com/nova-scotia-immigration/, download the opt out form, and submit it to the address listed. If you want to opt out, you must do so before Jan. 5 2012.

What if too many people opt out?

If more than 50 people opt out, the Province has the right to cancel the settlement. Neither the Province nor the lawyer for the class expect this to occur however.

I have other questions.

For more information, visit http://www.branchmacmaster.com/nova-scotia-immigration/. If you still have questions, just contact the lawyer appointed by the court to act for the class, Greg McMullen at Branch MacMaster LLP, at gmcmullen@branmac.com or 604-631-2560.

▶ Air Canada employees hold a rally at Pierre Elliott Trudeau airport in Montreal yesterday after talks over pay and conditions between unions and management broke down. The federal government is considering its options on how to handle a renewed threat of a strike at Canada's largest airline.

Feds buy time sending strike matter to CIRB

Union set to resume talks if key issues addressed
Unclear why two agreements rejected by members

The federal government is moving to prevent a strike Thursday by Air Canada flight attendants by sending the matter to the Canada Industrial Relations Board for review.

Labour Minister Lisa Raitt told CTV News that a reference will be sent to the board today asking it to examine the difficulties in winning ratification of two tentative agreements reached by company and union negotiators.

"While the matter is before the CIRB, there cannot be a work stoppage," Raitt said from Vancouver.

The latest twist in Air Canada's troubled contract negotiations comes after members of the union rejected the latest agreement, which was supported by leaders of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

"Our members are clearly frustrated, and are demanding their sacrifices over the past 10 years be addressed," said Jeff Taylor, president of the Air Canada Component of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The tentative deal was reached Sept. 20 with the help of a federal mediator appointed by Raitt and the threat of back-to-work legislation.

The reference buys the government time to pass back to work legislation once the House of Commons resumes Monday. Air Canada would operate a partial schedule if a strike occurred. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Campaign action

- Garda Security Group, a private company contracted by the Canadian Air Transport Security Authority, won an injunction Thursday that bars a work slowdown.
- The group suspended 74 screening officers at Pearson International Airport after they staged a work-to-rule campaign yesterday.
- Garda began legal action against the officers and is looking at termination of employment, contempt-of-court proceedings and claims for damages.
- Air Canada and the Greater Toronto Airports Authority reported some delays yesterday morning, but said things were moving fairly well later in the day.

JUST SAYIN' ...

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

I'm not sure what bacteriologist Edward Durham was thinking back in 1897 when he put a vial of intestinal bacteria in a time capsule, but whatever it was, he should have thought it over.

Not only do we have to worry about new diseases from birds and barnyard animals, now they're coming at us from 114 years in the past.

Time capsules are designed to be opened in the future, and the future arrived last week when a building at Bellevue Hospital in New York was demolished, exposing a time capsule including the scientist's little gift and a note asking future generations to "let us know how long these spores last."

Well, Ed, we'll get back to you. I might add we're lucky they weren't active and belong to a type of bacteria that has been successfully treated by antibiotics, a post-1897 invention.

"LOL if you must, but what goes into your time capsule? Downloads of Two and A Half Men? DNA from your dog? An Ikea catalogue? The iPod or the iPad? Both?"

Which leads you to wonder: what else is out there buried in a box from the past that could have interesting consequences if opened before Christmas?

Here's just a partial list from time capsules buried in various cornerstones around the world: silk condoms, false teeth, bikini bottoms, Life magazine, a kewpie doll, various grain seeds, messages from Albert Einstein, and even a car. Not toxic, per se, but what are they supposed to make of all that junk in the year 7000 AD?

Still, we continue to bury our civilization's flotsam and jetsam in structures that don't last 50 years, never mind 5,000. Or we shoot them into space, needles in a cosmic haystack. We do it because we hope that someone will be there and if they are, they need to get it right, dammit.

It's a way of bestowing immortality upon ourselves. And certainly, the only way any of these Just Sayin' columns will ever survive is to slip them in a time capsule between the bikinis and false teeth.

LOL if you must, but what goes into your time capsule? Downloads of Two and A Half Men? DNA from your dog? An Ikea catalogue? The iPod or the iPad? Both?

Let's say this stuff actually survives 5,000 years and is dug up. Will our descendants be able to decode our little blasts from the past? The origin and meaning of an 8-track could be as obscure as a cave painting.

Anthropologists, when they don't have a clue, always play the religious ritual card.

So in 7011, when they open up the Charlie Sheen Violent Torpedo of Truth Tour Video, it's possible a new religion will be born.

That's if God still has a sense of humour at that point.

RE: Jessica Napier's column published Oct. 11, What's in a maiden name?

Although I think the article was well written and thought provoking, I was surprised that, for a woman who writes from an informed and feminist perspective, she used references such as "Mr. and Mrs. His First and Last Name" and "Taking your husband's name." The article was written with gender assumptions and from a heterosexist perspective which made a good article disappointing in the end.

It deeply saddens and worries me to see the Harper government acting like a dictator in its excessive interferences in the labour disputes.

As the strike by flight attendants is looming, the government is threatening to come out with its stick and use it to force the employees back to work as if we live in a communist or fascist country.

Who nose?

Simply blowing your nose could now produce energy-making results as scientists have discovered a way of converting human breathing into electricity.

Professor Xudong Wang and his team have made a tiny device that generates a small amount of electricity when a low-speed airflow such as human respiration passes over it.

The engineers at the University of Wisconsin-Madison used a special plastic named polyvinylidene fluoride that can produce an electrical charge in response to a mechanical stress, a phenomenon known as the 'piezoelectric effect.' This plastic was small enough to be put inside a human nose.

"We calculated that if we could make this material thin enough, small vibrations could produce a microwatt of electrical energy that could be useful for sensors or other devices implanted in the face," Wang says. The engineer added that airflow from a human breath travels at less than two metres per second.

One microwatt of energy may sound minuscule but it is enough to power biomedical devices such a heart pacemaker or a diabetic's glucose monitor.

Hollywood horror

Tinseltown loves to recycle • It seems the horror remake factory is working overtime

HANDOUT

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Hollywood is so into recycling you'd think Al Gore was running a studio and green lighting movies. This year alone we've seen reimaginings, reboots and redos galore, from Straw Dogs and Footloose to Conan the Barbarian and The Mechanic.

It seems Tinseltown never met an idea it couldn't endlessly recycle.

This is particularly true in the horror genre. In the last 12 months, Colin Farrell clipped on Chris Sarandon's used fangs in a remake of Fright Night, and this weekend, The Thing is, according to IMDB, "a prequel to a remake of an adaptation of the novella Who Goes There?" Whatever it is, original it's not.

Not that all original horror films are better than their remakes. David Cronenberg's dark vision enhanced the story of The Fly, delivering the real scares that the campy 1958 version lacked, and 1978's Invasion of the Body Snatchers is far creepier than its cinematic predecessor.

The Blob, the tale of what happens when germ warfare goes awry, has been made a couple of times.

The original is an unintentionally funny flick with more giggles than gore, but it inspired a sequel, a remake and, if the rumours are true, a bloody revamp by horror maestro Rob Zombie.

I have a soft spot for the low-budget charm of the 1958 version, although the 1988 reboot has a smarter-than-it-needs-to-be script co-written by Frank Darabont and a cool tagline — "Scream now! while you can still breathe!"

Count Dracula is one of the most portrayed characters on the big screen, having appeared in more horror films than any other famous monster of filmland. Eighty years after he first portrayed the vampire in the 1931 film Dracula, Bela Lugosi is still the most famous blood sucker of them all, although for my money, two British actors — Gary Oldham in Bram Stoker's Dracula and Christopher Lee in Horror of Dracula — are tip-top Transylvanians.

Unlike his work in Scream, Wes Craven's early films didn't have any of the self-depreciating humour to go along with the scares.

His first movies were brutal, bloody and grim, usually all at once. Recent remakes of The Last House on the Left — rated R for "sadistic violence" — and The Hills Have Eyes — "The lucky ones die first!"— don't have quite the impact of the Vietnam era originals, but still require a strong stomach.

Rihanna happy for her ex

Two years ago Chris Brown pled guilty to felony assault on then-girlfriend Rihanna Now the 'Sexiest Woman Alive' says she wishes him all the best

Rihanna says she resented Chris Brown for a time, but has put that behind her and is happy that her former boyfriend has found success in music again.

Rihanna tells Esquire magazine that disliking Brown "was taking up too much of my time" and that she has moved on from that.

"It was too much anger," the 23-year-old said.

"I'm really excited to see the breakthrough he's had in his career."

Brown, 21, is serving five years of probation after pleading guilty to felony assault for the attack on Rihanna in the early morning hours before the 2009 Grammys.

Graffiti, the album he released 10 months after the attack, was a commercial disappointment.

But his latest release, F.A.M.E. (Forgiving All My Enemies), debuted at No. 1 on the Billboard 200 albums chart in March; it reached gold status and has multiple pop and R&B hits with songs like Look at Me Now and Deuces, among other tracks.

"It's incredible to see how he pulled out the way he did. Even when the world seemed like it was against him, you know?" Rihanna said.

"I really like the music he's putting out. I'm a fan of his stuff. I've always been a fan."

Rihanna has done well musically, too: Her albums following the attack — Rated R and Loud — have both gone platinum, and she's releasing a new album, Talk That Talk, next month.

Esquire named Rihanna as its Sexiest Woman Alive for 2011.

The November issue of the magazine hits newsstands on Oct. 16.

Her latest single, We Found Love, is her 20th song to hit the Top 10 on the Billboard Hot 100 singles chart since she debuted in 2005.

Overall, she says she wants to see Brown do well.

"I would never wish anything horrible for him. Never. I never have," she said.

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Jess, the titular New Girl in Fox's new hit comedy, is one of a kind — she offhandedly references Lord of the Rings, constantly sings to herself, and does this little "hubba hubba" thing with her glasses when she sees a cute guy.

But bringing Jess to life took the work of two quirky kindred spirits, New Girl star Zooey Deschanel and series creator Liz Meriwether.

The women could be sisters.

At a press event before the series' premiere, the pair both dress in a sophisticated, cool, "Oh, I just found this at the vintage shop" style, exchanging rapid-fire compliments that make the other equally excited and adorably embarrassed.

▶ The cast of New Girl

"Liz and I are, like, connected, our souls are connected. So when your souls are connected, you're meant to do a show together," Deschanel says.

"I didn't think I could, you know, find somebody that's as weird as I am," Meriwether interjects.

"The first time that she came in [to audition], the feeling in the room was, just the second she opened her mouth to do this scene, everybody was like, 'This is a perfect match of character and actress.'"

"When I read it," Deschanel adds, "I was like, 'I obviously need to play this part. This is me.' I mean, not actually me, but it is a part of me, a secret part.

And if there's any character I want to play forever and ever and ever, it's this one. So I'm psyched. High five, Liz."

Meriwether's reaction? "Ah, I'm going to cry," she says.

The show's plot

Zooey Deschanel plays Jess, an adorable, goofy girl who moves in with three guys after a bad breakup.

- The men welcome their new roomie in a little sister kind of way, trying to help her tone down her dorky tendencies and get back in the dating game.
- The comedy: "[Jess is] someone who expresses her emotions all the time ... which I think is a really great contrast with the other characters, who are less in touch with their emotions," Deschanel says. "A lot of the comedy comes out of that juxtaposition."

Musical girl

Zooey Deschanel's other gig is as one half of the band She & Him (she sings and plays piano and ukulele). Music plays a big part in New Girl — the theme to Dirty Dancing is featured in the pilot episode, and Jess often breaks out into little ditties. ● AMBER RAY

"Now God has blessed us with the ultimate."

Also carefully planned? The announcement about her pregnancy, made at the MTV Video Music Awards.

"I put a lot of thought into how I wanted to unveil it. It was important to me that I was able to do it myself," she says. "I decided to say nothing and proudly show my baby bump. I felt it was more powerful to see the love and enthusiasm as opposed to saying anything." METRO

I grew up 65 kilometres from here, so this is my capital city. My family all lives in the area — we're all New Englanders.

Where I live has a neighbourhood feel; you're in the city, but you know your neighbours and the kids all play hockey in the street. I've been to a lot more U.S. cities that are a lot more sterile, and this town has more of an old-world feel.

There's a lot of history here. I like the people. It's a walking city so you can walk from place to place; it's not sprawled out. I've been everywhere in the world and I love coming back. It's a unique place in the U.S. and in the world.

First time?

There are tours you can take, from walking tours like the Freedom Trail as well as the Duck Tours that take you round the city then into the Charles River (bostonducktours.com). We have the USS Constitution, a ship that was used in the Civil War (ussconstitutionmuseum.org) near the monument where the battle of Bunker Hill was fought. There's the Institute of Contemporary Art down by the waterfront (icaboston.org) and a wealth of great restaurants and bars and theatre in the south end and downtown.

The Faneuil Hall area is nice, especially if you're coming in the fall or winter. They really dress it up for Christmas.

Take a tour of Fenway Park, our baseball stadium, which I believe is the oldest in the country (boston.redsox.mlb.com).

Ken, our bass player, is involved with a place called McGreevy's. McGreevy was a fellow who owned the original sports bar down in the Fens around the turn of the last century and they resurrected that bar and it has a lot of decorations from the original bar — it's almost like a Red Sox and baseball museum with photos, trophies and banners. You can also get a good pint of Guinness and fantastic chicken wings (mcgreevysboston.com).

Stay

When our guys come to town they stay at Hotel Commonwealth.

It's on top of a spot where the Rathskeller Club used to be, which was where The Ramones played their first show in Boston.

So I have a little vendetta against them, only for that though, because I wish that we had the Rathskeller Club still.

Apparently the hotel treats the guys right. Check out the website at hotelcommonwealth.com.

Live music

There's great independent clubs here, like the Middle East café (mideastclub.com), O'Brien's (obrienspubboston.com), and The House of Blues, with live music every day of the week (houseofblues.com). Great Scott is one of my favourites. There's a lack of mid-sized clubs and it holds about 250, so it's great for bands that are just breaking out of the bar scene. Every night of the week you can find live music (greatscottboston.com).

Travel in brief

The South will rise again — at least on the New York City restaurant scene. According to the 2012 Zagat guide to city dining, Southern food tops this year's trends, thanks to newcomers like Marcus Samuelsson's celebrity magnet Red Rooster and The Cardinal, an East Village eatery dishing up okra, smothered pork chops and fried green tomatoes. Other trends include on-site gardens providing roof-to-table ingredients.

Cowichan Valley a bit of paradise

THE TRAVELLIN' CANADIAN

DARREN PARKMAN
TRAVEL@METRONEWS.CA

Who knew unassuming Vancouver Island is actually becoming world-class wine country, with quality grape-growing soil rivalling that of Italy and Northern France?

After arriving in picturesque Cowichan Valley, I was shocked to learn there are nearly 20 first-class boutique-style wineries in the area. It almost resembled Napa Valley as I drove past rolling hills of well-groomed vines. In fact, with its warm summers and trademark wet and mild B.C. winters, the area is perfect for growing Pinot Noir and Pinot Gris Grapes, which is why new wineries are sprouting up every year.

Cowichan Valley itself is a great little paradise nestled among towering old growth forests, quiet beaches and meandering rivers. Combine that with some good vino and you've got yourself a winning combination.

Centrally located between Victoria and Nanaimo, there is also no shortage of outdoor fun. I found myself surrounded by curious seals one morning as my one-man kayak skimmed the calm Pacific Ocean in front of the cosy Ocean Point Hotel in Cowichan Bay. These friendly little guys (almost looked like a pack of puppies poking there heads up) were all around my vessel. It was a very cool way to spend a morning.

No trip to wine country would be complete without sampling the product. I was impressed by my visit to several wineries in the area, including Averill Creek vineyards, which happens to be the largest on the Island. I found myself sipping a very palatable Pinot Noir reserve on the slope of Mount Prevost, while taking in the spectacular view of Cowichan valley. It felt like I was sitting in Napa, only without the pomp and the prices. Nothing like a relaxing weekend exploring the best kept secret in B.C.

TV's Stefano Faita keeps it simple in the kitchen

The host of In the Kitchen With Stefano Faita shares his recipes for Creamy Mixed Mushroom Lasagna and Grandma's Apple Cake ◗ Puts emphasis on easy and fresh eats

THE CANADIAN PRESS HANDOUT

▶ This recipe makes eight to 12 servings.

Creamy Mixed Mushroom Lasagna

This lasagna, made with creamy bechamel sauce, is indulgent. "I love all kinds of mushrooms, so it's a nice lasagna with all the mushrooms and bechamel and cheese. It's pretty simple but really delicious," says Stefano Faita, host of CBC-TV's weekday afternoon show In The Kitchen with Stefano Faita.

He adds that it's a great entrée to serve to friends at a dinner party.

Ingredients:

Bechamel Sauce
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) butter
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) plus 15 ml (1 tbsp) flour
- 1.25 l (5 cups) milk
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste

Lasagna
- 60 g (2 oz) dried porcini mushrooms
- Extra virgin olive oil
- Butter
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 kg (2 lb) fresh mixed mushrooms, such as cremini, shiitake and oyster
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) chopped fresh rosemary
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) each chopped thyme and sage
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) plus 15 ml (1 tbsp) white wine
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
- 10 fresh lasagna sheets
- 250 ml (1 cup) each grated Parmesan and Asiago cheese
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) chopped fresh parsley

Preparation:

1. In saucepan, melt butter over medium heat. Add flour and stir to combine to make a roux. Continue to cook and stir, 2 to 3 minutes. Gradually whisk in milk, making sure to incorporate the roux into milk. Continue to whisk mixture and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, whisking frequently, until sauce is thickened, about 10 minutes.
2. In bowl, soak dried mushrooms in warm water for 20 mins. Drain. Chop and set aside.
3. Heat 2 large skillets over medium heat. Add 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil and 30 ml (2 tbsp) butter to each pan. Divide onion and garlic between 2 pans. Cook until they begin to soften, 2 to 3 minutes.
4. Increase heat to medium high and divide fresh mushrooms and chopped herbs between the 2 pans. Sauté mushrooms until golden brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Add chopped dried mushrooms and continue to cook for 2 minutes. Deglaze pans with white wine and cook until most of the wine has evaporated.
5. Heat oven to 190 C (375 F). Then in a large saucepan of boiling salted water, cook sheets of lasagna in batches, 3 to 4 sheets at a time, until al dente. Immediately plunge them into cold water to stop the cooking process and transfer to a clean towel in a single layer to drain.
6. Butter 20-by-30-cm (8-by-12-inch) baking dish.
7. To assemble lasagna: Add a few tablespoons of bechamel to lightly cover bottom of baking dish. Add, in layers, 2 lasagna sheets, about a quarter of the mushroom mixture, a quarter of the remaining bechamel sauce, 30 ml (2 tbsp) grated Asiago and 30 ml (2 tbsp) grated Parmesan cheese. Repeat 4 times, adding cheese every other layer. For the top layer, finish with just grated cheese, about 125 ml (1/2 cup) of Asiago and 125 ml (1/2 cup) of Parmesan cheese. Add more cheese if you like.
8. Bake the lasagna until filling is hot and bubbling and cheese is golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Let lasagna rest 10 minutes before cutting. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Grandma's Apple Cake

Faita's grandmother looked after him and his sister when they were growing up and he has fond memories of this cake. "She used to make this apple cake every week. I would have it as a snack when I got home from school," he says.

Ingredients:
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) butter
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) plain breadcrumbs
- 500 ml (2 cups) all-purpose flour
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) cinnamon
- 5 ml (1 tsp) baking powder
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) brown sugar
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) butter
- 2 eggs (extra large)
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) plain yogurt
- Zest of 1/2 lemon
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) orange juice
- 2 large apples, peeled and diced
- 150 ml (2/3 cup) dried raisins
- 150 ml (2/3 cup) chopped almonds
- Butterscotch or sauce
- Vanilla ice cream

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 180 C (350 F). Grease 20-cm (8-inch) round cake pan with butter; dust with breadcrumbs to coat bottom and sides. Set aside.
2. In bowl, combine flour, cinnamon and baking powder. Set aside. In a mixing bowl, beat brown sugar and butter until fluffy. Add eggs one at a time and continue to beat until incorporated and smooth. Add yogurt, lemon zest and orange juice. Continue to beat until batter is smooth.
3. Stir flour mix into wet mix a little at a time until batter is smooth. Gently fold in apples, raisins and almonds.
4. Scrape cake batter into prepared pan. Bake until cake springs back when touched and cake tester comes out clean, 40 to 45 minutes.
5. Serve with butterscotch sauce and vanilla ice cream, if desired. Alternatively, simply dust with icing sugar.

STUDENT VOICE

KRYSTAL YEE
TALENTEGG.CA

I graduated in 2006 from the Applied Communication Program at Camosun College in Victoria, B.C. It is a two-year program focusing on graphic design, journalism, broadcast radio, television and photography.

During my program, it seems so cliché to say that I worked hard, but I worked harder than I ever have before because I knew that once I left school with my two-year diploma, I’d probably have to be twice as employable as the graduate who held a degree.

My strategy from the first day of school was to focus on a marketing career. So even though I didn’t take a marketing program, all of the skills I was learning were directly applicable to any job within the marketing realm.

▶ Krystal Yee

My passion has always been writing, but I did not want to specialize in anything and potentially pigeon-hole myself before I even landed my first job. So by opening up my skillset I felt like I could fit into whatever position was needed within a large marketing department, or I could be the go-to person within a smaller company.

Like most students, once I graduated, I had a huge pile of student loan and credit card debt to deal with. I knew I needed to get a job and eliminate my debt as fast as possible, so I kept my ear to the ground and started networking like crazy.

One day, I got word from a friend that there was an unadvertised opening for an entry-level clerk position within the provincial government. I wasn’t interested in being a clerk, but I decided to apply for the job anyway in order to practice my interview skills.

It turns out they were actually looking for someone with my kind of marketing skills — they just didn’t have the budget to have the position classified as anything higher than a clerk. It was the break that I had been waiting for. I snapped up the job on the spot and started the very next week.

It was also around that time that I started blogging online. I created my website, Give Me Back My Five Bucks (givemebackmyfivebucks.com), as a way to hold myself accountable for my debt, and to give myself an outlet for writing. It was because of my blog that I was able to eliminate all of my debt within 12 months.

Even though I only have a two-year diploma, I feel like I have been relatively successful in the last five years. I don’t have any remarkable skills, a huge network of influencers, or a lot of education to back me up but I’ve been able to succeed because of my hard work, determination, and the ability to create opportunities for myself.

When you are fresh out of school, all you need to focus on is getting your foot in the door. Normally, entry-level positions are not glamorous. In fact, it might not look anything like the dream job you’ve been imagining – but that’s OK! We all have to start somewhere. Do a good job with every task you are assigned, work hard, and be proactive in asking for more responsibility.

Zombies Unearthed!

IAN FLYNN MCDONALD/FOR METRO

▶ Participants in the 2010 zombie walk in Ottawa.

Zombie love is a no-brainer

Move over, vampires ◐ Zombies are everywhere and rising in popularity ◐ Soon to be kings of the undead

PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS
@METRONEWS.CA

Sparkly vampires are all the rage right now, but zombies are knocking their fellow legions of the undead from their pedestal.

From zombie walks being held in cities across the world to television shows, video games and numerous books hitting the stores, people's fascination with zombies is spreading like a plague.

"Zombies have the upper hand," says University of B.C. film studies professor Ernest Mathijs, whose specialities include horror and fantasy film.

"Zombies are a kind of ingredient you can add to any cultural product and make it look slightly different," he said. "It will turn it into a funny parody of contemporary cultures, and somehow that appeals to cultures across the globe."

The idea of zombies originally came from the voodoo culture in Haiti. The word "zombi" was used to describe a brainless slave labourer raised from the dead by a bokor, or sorcerer.

"If zombie narratives go further in investing zombies with some capacity for personality and depth of characterization, it will probably come closer to being a variance on vampire stories."
PROF. GISELE BAXTER, UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

The now-familiar modern zombie was popularized and turned into a phenomenon in 1968 by way of the unexpected popularity of director George Romero's low-budget horror classic Night of the Living Dead.

Gisele Baxter of UBC's English department, who specializes in gothic culture and post-apocalyptic fiction, says Romero's film took the horror genre one step further.

"Romero was influential in spawning everyday horror that doesn't deal with mad scientists or externalized threats, but deals with threats we associate with nightmares, personal threats and very primal fears," she says.

The audience identifies with zombie stories because people today are fascinated and fearful of the possibility of an apocalypse, widespread annihilation or a viral pandemic, Baxter says.

The metaphorical possibilities and themes inherent in zombie stories also appeal to modern filmmakers because they can experiment with notions of what people would do to survive in a kill-or-be-killed world,

Both Mathijs and Baxter have been fascinated by the emergence of new, creative ways of incorporating the zombie factor into popular culture. One recent innovation is the spoof novel Pride and Prejudice and Zombies, which is being adapted into a film.

"When you think of Pride and Prejudice, the last thing you think about is zombies," Baxter says. "The juxtaposition of these immensely different things really fascinated people. Then it spawned a lot of copycat titles, which is very impressive because people found the energy and imagination to do anything with these titles."

Ottawans, reach for your most ghoulish garments

A dire warning about zombies from Mayor Jim Watson has reached the offices of Metro News:

"Zombie apocalypses are hardly predictable and they spread quickly because, let's face it, zombies only care about eating ... your brains. So, it's important to be ready with an emergency kit of rations and a well-thought escape plan. Don't get caught unprepared because even though they move slowly, the undead are deadly in groups," reads the firmly tongue-in-cheek email.

But it seems Ottawa zombies care a little more than your run-of-the-mill undead horde. On Oct. 22 the city's annual zombie walk will be collecting non-perishable food items for the Ottawa Food Bank in addition to the traditional braiiinnnnnnns.

"Most zombie walks in North America have a charitable element to them," said walk organizer and self-styled "zombie queen" Bryony Etherington. "We've arranged to have a food-bank van on site at MacDonald Gardens Park so people can bring their donations."

Walkers are to assemble from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the park, where makeup services, hearse rides and other fun activities will be on tap.

At 3 p.m. the walk will start moving north on Coburg Street toward the ByWard Market. After meandering through the market, the zombies will lurch south through the U of O campus before heading across the Corkstown bridge and north again to their final resting place at Parliament Hill.

"We had about 700 to 1,000 people last year on the Hill," said Etherington. "I'm expecting about 1,000 this year."

Already 1,300 people have confirmed their attendance on the walk's Facebook page.

Etherington says the popularity of the event may be in part due to the explosion of zombie and vampire culture in popular media. But she also suspects the walk may appeal to everyone's inner kid.

"It's a family event, but I think the real appeal is it's really a way for people who are out of the trick-or-treating age to have a fun Halloween event."

Zombify your look for Halloween

Achieving a gory zombie look — complete with sunken eyes and rotting flesh — may seem like adaunting task But professional makeup artist Dorota Buczel shows you how to pull it off in five easy steps

PHOEBE HO/FOR METRO

Do you want to look like you just stepped off the set of Night of the Living Dead this Halloween? You'll need: liquid latex, tissue paper or cotton balls, multi-colour makeup kit (white, black, green), fake blood, white powder or baby powder, tooth stain, charcoal powder, brushes and a sponge.

SUBMITTED

Step 1
Apply liquid latex over clean skin to create the effect of peeling skin and wounds. For a more dramatic effect, you can mix cotton or pieces of tissue paper with latex. Once the latex dries, start peeling the edges to get the desired effect.

Step 2
With a makeup sponge, add a grey or greenish crème make-up base to the entire face, neck and any other exposed skin. All areas of flesh must be covered in makeup. Pay close attention to the jawline, hairline and hands.

Step 3
Use the black or dark grey colour from the multi-colour makeup kit and apply shadows with a sponge or brush around the eyes and cheekbones to achieve a sunken-in look.

Step 4
Add fake blood for desired effect and apply tooth stain.

SUBMITTED

Step 5
To create wrinkles and creases, squint and pucker up your lips while you apply white powder around your eyes and lips with a sponge.

SURVIVE A ZOMBIE OUTBREAK

Just in case you happen to find yourself face-to-face with the undead, here's what you shouldn't do

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

It's remarkable how the living dead have defined the post-millennium zeitgeist more than any other pop-culture entity.

From Max Brooks' best-selling novel World War Z (an upcoming film adaptation will star Brad Pitt) to a glut of first-person shooter videogames to mainstream television with AMC's The Walking Dead, the zombie has mysteriously reached the peak of his popularity.

But most of this can be traced back to one man, the master of zombie lore, George A. Romero.

It was Romero who, in 1968, took the basic thrust of Richard Matheson's shattering vampire apocalypse novel I Am Legend and brought the dead back to life with his masterpiece Night of the Living Dead.

That film would spawn a series of rip-offs, sequels and eventually spoofs like Edgar Wright's smash-hit comedy Shaun of the Dead.

If, by some sort of biologically bad stroke of viral luck, mankind were to suddenly be under siege from a revolution of the dead ... what would we do?

Metro thought long and hard about this and, using commentary from George Romero and his frequent collaborator, iconic FX wizard, director and actor Tom Savini, we now offer you a selection of "do nots" in the face of a potential zombie-geddon.

Do not. Attempt to out-swim the dead

HANDOUT

▶ Land of the Dead

Zombies aren't bears. As a few unfortunate characters in Romero's 2010 horror-western Survival of the Dead discover, they aren't afraid of the water

When rogue SWAT cops go for a dip to escape the ghouls, they soon discover the dead — who, remember, don't breathe — are excellent swimmers and have no problem eating whilst underwater.

Romero: I had underwater zombie stuff in Land and Diary but really played with it here. There is a lot of humour in Survival, but it's also really melancholic, less free-and-easy. Though at this stage of my life, I'm thinking of calling the next one — if there is a next one — Enough of the Dead!

Savini: Forget swimming. I go where there are places to run and things to hide behind, maybe up high, where I can blast away at them and they can't get to me.

Do not. Take the elevator

In Romero's incredibly influential 1978 epic Dawn of the Dead, a handful of survivors land their helicopter on the roof of Pittsburgh's Monroeville Mall and block out the corpses, creating a Shangri-la of material bliss.

But when the ghouls gain entrance as they always do, chopper pilot Fly Boy (David Emge) stupidly takes the lift. And when those doors open up, a horde of flesheaters burst in and ride with him. The following scenes are gory and should serve as a warning to potential zombie survivalists to always take the stairs.

▶ Survival of the Dead

Romero: Dawn is a romp, and I think it's the most entertaining of all the Dead films. I really cut loose and did it as "comic book," as I wanted to do it. But when Fly Boy gets it there's tragedy in there too.

Savini: The other thing Dawn teaches you is that your friends should not know where the hell you're hiding, just in case they become zombies with good memories.

See also:: Resident Evil (2004), in which military types take an elevator to hell and encounter subterranean zombies of both human and canine persuasions.

HANDOUT

▶ The Walking Dead

Do not. Marginalize or exploit the dead

Romero's post-Dawn remake comeback, 2005's Land of the Dead, saw the late Dennis Hopper as a capitalist swine who allows his fellow Republicans to hide in his multimillion-dollar condo while the dead population are hunted and slaughtered beyond his electrified fences. When a burly undead gas-station attendant named Big Daddy (Eugene Clark) tires of seeing his "people" treated as target practice, he leads the zombies into an all-out class struggle attack against their moneyed oppressors.

Romero: I think (Land) was the first time mainstream American critics saw the satire of my work, and I owe it all to George Bush! I think it's all there when Hopper says the line: "We do not negotiate with terrorists."

Savini: I played a machete-wielding zombie in Land, and George's direction was simple: "Slam the s–t out of the guy who comes up to me." So I did.

See also: The Omega Man (1971), in which a zombie-like cult of blinded ghouls try to kill any reminder of corporate America, including sole survivor Charlton Heston.

Top 5 zombie flicks

5 They Came Back (2004)
Moody, masterful French chiller about the dead returning and trying to re-integrate themselves into their old lives and families.

4 Tombs of the Blind Dead (1971)
This Spanish shocker sees rotten, long-dead, blind templars crawling through crypts, listening for their prey.

3 Return of the Living Dead (1985)
What begins as a spoof of Romero's films slowly evolves into a blood-and-brains-soaked nightmare.

2 Zombie (1979)
The unofficial Italian prequel to Romero's Dawn, made by splatter master Lucio Fulci. Insane, delightfully disgusting.

1 The No. 1 pick (released in 1978) is fierce, funny and melancholy. To find out its title — and to see clips from all five films — visit metronews.ca/zombies.

HEAD
Bulls-eye! Grey matter is what keeps the walking corpses walking. Destroy it and the zombie goes down ... again!

LUNGS
Nothin' doin'. Zombies don't breathe, remember?

ABDOMEN
Messy? Yes. Effective? No. But it's a trip to see the parts, boots and licence plates that spill out. Just like the shark in Jaws.

KNEES
A great alternative to the head. Removing the zombie's ability to walk or run gives you a chance to relax and concentrate on more important things ... like more rampaging zombies!

Alfredsson scores shootout winner as Senators beat Wild 4-3 in their 20th home opener

| | |
|---|---|
| 4 | 3 |
| SENATORS | WILD |

The Ottawa Senators celebrated their 20th home opener in style as Daniel Alfredsson scored the shootout winner in a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Wild yesterday.

Nick Foligno, Chris Neil and Colin Greening scored for the Senators (1-2-0) in regulation while goaltender Craig Anderson stopped 24 shots.

Greening tied the game on the power play 8:22 into the third to force extra time after digging the puck out from his feet and getting a quick wrist shot past Minnesota goaltender Niklas Backstrom.

Kyle Brodziak, Devin Setoguchi and Nick Johnson scored for the Wild (1-2-0), while Backstrom made 41 saves.

For the third straight game the Senators found themselves trailing early as Brodziak gave the Wild a 1-0 lead before the halfway mark of the first period.

Setoguchi made it 2-0 for Minnesota with a power-play goal with less than one minute remaining in the first period. Dany Heatley, who was booed all night, picked up an assist on the goal. It was Heatley's second game back in Ottawa since asking to be traded in the summer of 2009.

Both teams looked flat to start the second as the Senators failed to register a single shot on its power play, but Ottawa found some energy by the halfway mark and outshot the Wild 13-2.

Foligno picked up his first of the season as he dug the puck from out front and knocked it in to make it 2-1. Peter Regin, playing his first regular season game since last February, picked up an assist.

Johnson made it 3-1 minutes into the third. David Rundblad, playing his first NHL game, did his best to stop the puck from crossing the line, but the replay showed it had already fully crossed the goal-line.

The Senators made it 3-2 on a goal by Neil that was initially waved off, but was then allowed after a review.

After early struggles, Broncos turn to Tebow

It's officially Tebow Time in Denver.

Coach John Fox said yesterday he'll start Tim Tebow against the Miami Dolphins when the Broncos return from their bye week.

Tebow supplants Kyle Orton, who has struggled ever since winning the job with a spectacular training camp.

"Well, I think 1-4 has a lot to do with it," Fox said. "We haven't gotten it done as a football team. It's not one guy. It's not all Kyle Orton's fault. But we do have to make adjustments, we have to change and we have to do something to win football games."

Tebow said he was "honoured to get this opportunity. I'm very excited. ... I just know that every day I'm going to come out here and practice every day I can."

Orton said he was disappointed but vowed to support Tebow and the rest of his teammates.

Players look at suing Cherry

ENFORCERS. Former NHL players Stu Grimson, Chris Nilan and Jim Thomson are considering legal action over Don Cherry's rant about fighting in hockey.

They issued a joint statement early Tuesday morning calling Cherry's comments "damaging and inflammatory" and his attempts to qualify them "entirely ineffectual."

Longer and wider

Kia's California-based stylists really sharpened their pencils (or computer programs) in designing the new Rio duo and devised a larger canvas on which to do it.

Both the sedan and hatchback 5-Door are a bit longer and wider than their predecessors and the distance between their front and rear wheels has grown by a leg-stretching three inches.

The sheetmetal is now much more pleasing, especially on the slinkier hatch that has its own grille, bumper and, of course, rear door.

Idle Stop and Go

The powerplant's claim to fame is the adoption of what Kia calls Idle Stop and Go (ISG). This feature, available only in combination with the automatic transmission, shuts down the engine when the Rio comes to a complete stop, then instantly fires it up again when the brake pedal is released.

ISG is part of an optional Eco Dynamics Package that includes a special alternator that disengages under high engine load (such as when heading up a hill) to reduce power-sapping drag and improve fuel economy.

Engine

The Rio's power output has been significantly increased. The 1.6-litre four-cylinder produces 138 horses and 123 pound-feet of torque. That's a gain of 28 horses and 16 pound-feet of torque compared to the outgoing 1.6, which is significant on a 1,135-kilogram vehicle.

The lighter-by-13 kilograms engine is connected to a six-speed manual transmission or an optional six-speed automatic.

▶ Kia has done a good job of creating a sedan that doesn't look droopy at the ends. From this angle, you can also see that the headlights stretch up the front fender more than half way. Remember when headlights used to be on the front of a car?

Kia Rio: Good things come in small packages

MALCOLM GUNN
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA
WHEELBASE MEDIA

It can now be carved in stone with absolute certainty that the dumbed-down, stripped-bare small-car era is officially over. And we have cars such as the 2012 Kia Rio to thank for pushing high-tech and comfort features down to the lowest limb on the automotive tree.

The all-new Rio sedan and Rio 5-Door hatchback bear little resemblance to their predecessors that took a minimalist approach and backed it up with styling and features that defined utilitarian.

But, hey, that worked for the Rio and its Hyundai Accent relation (Hyundai owns Kia), as well as for just about every other entry-level car on the planet.

It's amazing what a little bar-raising competition has done for what was once the low-rent category. Nowadays, the market is teeming with really decent base rides, including the Ford Fiesta, Toyota Yaris, Mazda2, Honda Fit, Nissan Versa and the upcoming Chevrolet Sonic, to name some of the class leaders.

At a base price of $15,650 for the hatchback (pricing for the sedan hasn't been set yet), the Rio models appear to have established category benchmarks for fashion and substance that will be hard to top, but easy for small-car shoppers to swallow.

▶ Modern and simplistic with a richer look defines the new Rio's interior. The car isn't the least expensive in its class, but it doesn't have to be.

▶ The smart-looking hatchback has slightly less cargo room than the previous model with the rear seat in the upright position.

Kia Rio

What you should know about the 2012 Kia Rio/Rio 5-Door:

- Types: Four-door, front-wheel-drive sub-compact sedan/hatchback.
- Engine (hp): 1.6-litre DOHC I4 (138).
- Transmission: Six-speed manual; Six-speed automatic (opt.).
- Market position: Sub-compacts is the hottest category since the sport utility vehicle. The Kia Rio and its Hyundai Accent relation are examples of cutting-edge styling, mighty-mite performance and fuel economy at an affordable price.
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 6.6/4.9 (AT).

FUEL EFFICIENCY FACES INTRIGUING PARADOX

AUTO PILOT

MIKE GOETZ
DRIVE
@METRONEWS.CA

We instinctively equate fuel efficiency with fuel conservation, but they are completely different concepts. If fact, fuel efficiency can actually lead to more fuel consumption.

CONTRIBUTED

▶ The Chevrolet Sonic

This disturbing notion was first documented in a scholarly way, back in 1865, by the British economist, W. Stanley Jevons.

He argued that the technological improvements, which increased the amount of energy one could extract out of a certain amount of coal, actually led to more coal use, not less. The notion has since been known as the Jevons Paradox.

I had my own Jevons Paradox moment this past weekend. I made an extra run to my ancestral bungalow, 100 kilometres away, mostly because I had access to a very efficient vehicle — the cute and zippy Chevrolet Sonic.

With the Sonic's highway fuel consumption rating of 5.1 L/100 km, the 200 km round trip burned up about 11 litres of regular, at $1.22 per, for an estimated expenditure of about 13 bucks.

If my only vehicle option had been my '67 Jaguar E-type, I wouldn't have went, because the round trip would have cost me about $35 in premium fuel, about $2 in heavy weight engine oil, and about a day or two off my life expectancy, due to the physical and emotional stress of watching the Jaguar's coolant temperature gauge flirting with disaster for two solid hours. But I did have the Sonic, so I went. Net result: I used 11 "more" litres of gasoline than I would have, had I been Sonic-less.

We take more car trips and drive more annual kilometres than we did 40 years ago, and that means we consume more gasoline than we did 40 years ago, even factoring in the fantastic fuel efficiency gains we've made over the same period.

Now, we're contributing significantly less greenhouse gases per vehicle trip, because the vehicles run a lot cleaner, so that's something.

But if we collectively think we'll fix everything by chipping away at the fuel numbers, we won't, because the more fuel-efficient vehicles become, the cheaper it becomes to consume fuel. We're on a path to efficiently consume more and more fuel.

Economists, especially those with a free market bent, tell us there is one, sure-fire way to change consumer behaviour — the brute force of high price.

But do we want a world where fuel prices are so high only the rich get to drive? I say, "nay."

Actually I would say, "nay, nay, really nay." I guess we could also allocate fuel via a voucher system, as used by post-war Britain for many years.

What would really help, however, is if someone came up with a new paradox, one that would be easier to get your head around than Jevons Paradox, and where the outcome would always be awesome.

That's your assignment for this week. No extensions.

Honda LEEDs way at new head office

Environmentally-friendly building was three years in the making

DRIVING FORCE

JIL McINTOSH
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

All automakers are working to make their vehicles more environmentally-friendly, but sustainability involves all aspects of the auto industry. That's why Honda designed its new headquarters in Markham, Ont., to meet LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) standards.

"It took us three years to build and move in," says Barry Holt, Honda's vice-president of finance and information services.

"To date, Honda has 11 LEED-certified facilities (in North America), and this is the only one in Canada."

The Honda head office "campus" consists of three buildings — offices, parts warehouse and a technical centre — on 54 acres of land. It recently was awarded Gold status by LEED.

It's not just enough to incorporate recycled materials or reduce the construction trash that goes to landfills, although Honda did that.

It started well before the first shovel went into the ground with habitat preservation, since the complex was built on a farmer's field. This meant ensuring that forests or ponds didn't have to be taken out. A large portion of the property has been given over to green space, and some 1,000 trees, 5,000 shrubs and 2,700 perennials have been planted.

Water is always a key issue with sustainability, and the Honda building uses a storm-water system that collects rainwater and stores it in an underground cistern for irrigation.

A sensible alternative to most coupes

SECOND GEAR

JUSTIN PRITCHARD
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

2007 to 2011 Volkswagen Eos

A convertible four-seater designed for year-round use, the Volkswagen Eos featured a sleek coupe body capped by a hard-top motorized roof and sunroof assembly — allowing owners to take in the sun and fresh air even on colder days.

An affordable, but upscale model, the VW Eos featured navigation, parking radar, Bluetooth, premium audio, xenon lighting, heated leather seating and more.

A long list of safety equipment was also standard.

Engine

All Eos models got a two-litre four-cylinder turbo engine with 200 horsepower. Transmission choices included a six-speed manual and a six-speed Direct-Shift Gearbox (DSG) with paddle shift.

What owners like

Eos's quick-acting top mechanism, nicely-trimmed cabin, fun-to-drive attitude and an overall sporty and refined character is popular with owners. Most of these note that interior space up front is generous given the overall size of the car.

What owners dislike

Eos owners typically wish for more back-seat space, better rearward visibility, and more storage space for smaller, at-hand items within the cabin. Limited trunk space is also an issue with some owners.

Common issues

Start a test-drive of a potential used Eos by looking for water leaks. Many Eos owners have reported some level of water leakage through the convertible top, so check carpeting, the roof panels and the roof storage area for signs of water damage or dampness.

All on-board electronics should also be tested for proper performance. Note that a rough idle, hesitation, or a check-engine light could be caused by glitch ignition-system parts.

Verdict

Consider the Eos a roomier and more sensible alternative to machines like a Mazda MX-5 or Saturn Sky in the used market — thanks to its back seat and the year-round driving confidence of front-wheel drive.
